HOW THE CLUB WORKS

The LAUMED Journal Club operates through a structured, interactive and participatory approach designed to promote continuous learning, knowledge sharing and intellectual development among members.

1. Membership and Baseline Assessment

- Members are assigned specific topics to research and explore based on their existing knowledge and understanding.

- This process helps establish a baseline understanding of members' knowledge and identifies areas that require further learning.

2. Topic Presentations and Discussions

- Assigned topics are presented during our regular meetings.

- Presentations are followed by interactive discussions and question-and-answer sessions.

- These discussions allow members to share their perspectives, clarify difficult concepts and reinforce the knowledge gained from each presentation.

3. Knowledge Assessment

- Periodic quiz sessions are organised to assess members' understanding of previously discussed topics.

- These assessments help reinforce learning, evaluate knowledge retention and identify areas that need improvement.

4. Biographical Discussions

- We explore the biographies, achievements and contributions of influential individuals.

- Discussions focus on the work of people whose ideas, discoveries and innovations have made positive contributions to humanity.

- This provides members with opportunities to learn from their experiences, perspectives and legacies.

5. General Discussion Sessions

- General discussion sessions are organized periodically, approximately once every four meetings.

- These sessions provide an opportunity for members to explore diverse perspectives on relevant subjects and issues.

- They encourage open-mindedness, intellectual exchange, critical thinking and a broader understanding of different viewpoints.

6. Weekly Articles

- Weekly articles are published every Thursday as part of our commitment to continuous learning and personal development.

- These publications serve as a means of reinforcing the club's values, encouraging self-improvement and fostering a culture of intellectual curiosity.

ANNUAL JOURNAL PUBLICATION

The annual journal publication is one of the flagship projects of LAUMED Journal Club. It provides a platform for members to contribute to academic writing, collaborative research and the dissemination of knowledge.

Through this initiative:

- Annual publication: The club works towards producing and publishing a journal annually, featuring articles and scholarly contributions from its members.

- Interest-based groups: Members are organised into groups based on their individual interests and areas of academic curiosity. This allows them to explore topics they are passionate about while contributing meaningfully to the journal.

- Collaborative authorship: Members work together in researching, developing, writing and reviewing articles for publication. This encourages teamwork, peer learning and collaboration among aspiring researchers.

- Publication opportunities: Members who actively participate in the journal production process have the opportunity to contribute articles that are featured in the club's annual journal.

- Research and writing development: The process exposes members to academic writing, literature review, critical appraisal, referencing and the fundamentals of scholarly publication.
